and he has some... players that some referees would probably have resented to the point of ordering the men off. Once he dove into a mixup, separated two belligerent players, gave each a slap on the back and with a broad grin advised them to "cut it out" and get down to playing.

Umpire Jackson's first two penalties were directed against McKinley and from that moment the McKinley crowd kept after the umpire and roused the players against him. This and other things stimulated the bitter feeling and instead of the players working off their rancors as the game went along, they seemed to grow worse. As an independent spectator, the writer feels that each of the teams played inevitably rough football.

Two courses were open to the officials. The first was to send instantly to the sidelines any player who showed even a suspicion of roughness.
This course would probably have cost each team one or two of its stars in the first ten minutes, but it would also have ended the roughing. It certainly would have ruled Brash out, as

HAGUE TREATY SUDDENLY OF INTEREST HERE

Geier and Admiral Moore and Captain Rashoff exchanged the verbal formal-ties of internment.The Geier entered the harbor October 15 and was thus given three weeks for her repairs, plus the 24 hours after the time was up.Following the receipt of a lengthy cable from Washington by Collector of Customs M. A. Franklin late Saturday afternoon matters pertaining to the departure of the German cruiser Geier and its consort, the freighter Locksua, or the internment of these vessels moved with startling rapidity.Captain Gerlach, master of the Locksua, which had been riding at anchor off the port, was notified of the mandate from the United States government. The officer was told that the United States government had decided that the Locksua was to all intents and purposes a naval collier and had served in the capacity of auxiliary from its steaming from Manila about August 15. Captain Gerlach was advised that the ruling from Washington called for the departure of the immediate internment of this vessel. The conference lasted less than a half hour at the conclusion of which the Locksua under its own steam came into the harbor and was given a berth at Pier 6.The arrival of the Locksua proved the signal for a general exodus to the waterfront, the vicinity of the wharf being packed with people shortly after 8 o'clock Saturday night when the lines of the Locksua had been made fast by men chosen by Harbor Master Foster.Collector Franklin, accompanied by Special Deputy Raymer Sharp and Admiral C. B. T. Moore, then repaired to the United States naval vessel Alert to await the hour of midnight, the time designated by the Washington government for the war vessel to intern or depart.Collector Franklin stated this morning that when Captain Rashoff of the Geier agreed to the proposition to intern his responsibility then ceased."It's all up to Admiral Moore of the United States navy," he stated when asked what steps would be taken todisarm or dismantle the Geier and the Locksua."Whatever guard may be placed on board these vessels is a matter that comes directly under the jurisdiction of the navy department. I am glad that it is all over. I am quite willing to shift further responsibility to the broad shoulders of the United States navy department."

Internment—What is Done.

Of particular interest at this time are former instances of internment of vessels in U. S. ports, these ports being neutral.One of the most noted of these instances, and one whose details may be compared with that of the Geier, occurred at San Francisco in 1904 when the Russian cruiser Lena took refuge there.John Bassett Moore, until recently counselor of the state department, discusses this interestingly in his authoritative "International Law Digest." He says:

"September 13, 1904, the Russian ambassador and the Japanese minister at Washington both advised the department of state of the arrival at San Francisco of the Russian transport or auxiliary cruiser Lena, with a crew of 500 men and an armament of 27 quickfiring guns. The Russian ambassador stated that the vessel was in an un-seaworthy condition, and asked that she might receive all aid compatible with neutrality. The Japanese minister asked that 'appropriate measures' be taken. On September 14 the Russian ambassador was advised that if the vessel was repaired only such bare repairs could be allowed as might be necessary to render the vessel seaworthy and enable her to reach the nearest home port, and that even such repairs could be permitted only on condition that they should not prove to be too extensive; that an inspection made by United States officers at San Francisco showed that the repairs asked for included a complete outfit of new bottles and the reconstruction of engines, which would consume at least four or five months, or, according to the captain's estimate, eight months, and amount to a renovation of the vessel.
It was declared that this could not be allowed with a due regard to neutrality, and an answer was desired as to whether the Russian government preferred to have the limited repairs made or to have the vessel laid up at the Mare Island navy yard.

"On the 15th of September the Russian ambassador asked for a delay of 48 hours, in order that he might receive the instructions of his government, but he was advised in reply that the captain of the Lena had informed the American naval authorities at San Francisco that the ship, being unseaworthy, must disarm, and had asked that she be allowed to make needed repairs. In view of this formal application of the captain of the vessel, the president, on the afternoon of the 15th of September, issued an order directing that the Lena be taken into custody by the naval authorities of the United States and disarmed under the following conditions:

Conditions of Internment.
(1) That the vessel be taken to the Mare Island navy yard and there disarmed by removal of small guns, breechblocks, small arms, ammunition and ordnance stores and such other dismantlement as might be prescribed by the commandant of the navy yard; (2) That the captain of the Lena should give a written guarantee that she should not leave San Francisco till peace had been concluded, and that the officers and crew should be paroled not to leave San Francisco till, some other understanding as to their disposal might be reached between the United States and both belligerents; (3) That, after disarmament, the vessel might be removed to a private dock for such reasonable repairs as would make her seaworthy and preserve her in good condition during detention, or be so repaired at the navy yard, should the Russian commander so elect, and that while at the private dock the commandant of the navy yard should have custody of the ship, and that long as she should be overseen by an officer to be detailed by him; and up in the cost of repairs, of private dock and maintenance of the vessel and crew while in custody, to be borne by the Russian government, but the berthing at Mare Island, the custody and surveillance of the vessel by the United States.

That the vessel, when rechecked, should be taken back to where it had been held in custody at the time of the war. The Russian ly was expressed the adherence Hop, consent to these conditions, the part of the officers and crew was ten, except five officers and stand of who were necessary for to it. It was permitted to leave tates. The Japanese government, on the other hand, asked Massachusetts officers and crew be de-hunting. United States till the increased hostilities. The president would not be committed to grant the reparation of any of

NON-COMMS. OF 1ST. F. A. ARE TO HAVE CLUB

Authority Granted to Establish Organization Similar to That of Officers

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Nov. 9.— A tremendous stride toward a condition that will increase the pleasure and contentment of the enlisted men of the colonial army was made when authority was granted the non-commissioned officers of the 1st Field Artillery to establish a club that will be conducted along lines similar to the officers' clubs.

Already the foundation has been laid for a building that will cost in the neighborhood of $600, and this is only a starter, for the building is to be expanded as soon as funds are available, and among other features there will be a section of the club for ladies. The site is about 100 yards north of the polo field.

According to the approved constitution the name of the club will be the "Non-Commissioned Officers' Club, 1st Field Artillery" and the object of this club shall be "to cultivate a regimental spirit, among the non-commissioned officers of the regiment, and to provide a suitable place for amusement, social gatherings, etc., in which refreshments (including beer) and lunch may be served to non-commissioned officers of the regiment and their families."

The club has launched itself into existence with fifty charter members, and any non-commissioned officer upon receipt of warrant is eligible for membership. The initiation fee is $5, which is to be returned upon cessation of membership for any cause other than expulsion for non-payment of indebtedness.

The constitution distinctly provides that no sales shall be made for profit, and that sales shall be made as near cost as possible to insure payment of the running expenses of the club.

At the first meeting of the club, Sergeant Joseph G. Bye was elected president, Sergeant William Thompson, secretary and treasurer, Sergeant William F. Rike, Q. M. Sergeant Thomas A. Walsh and Chief Trumpeter Claude Goldsberry, directors.

For the purpose of putting a course of study and program for the coming year the officers and teachers of the Central Union Bible school will meet in the church parlors at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Several items of business will come up for discussion, and a full attendance of teachers, officers and workers is requested.

the officers or crew of the Lena, unless both the belligerents agreed to it.
Without such an agreement he regarded the position of the men as being identical in principle with that of a military force entering neutral territory and there necessarily held by the neutral.

Flag Could be Hoisted.

December 10, 1904, the Russian ambassador asked that the captain and crew of the Lena might be permitted to celebrate the name day of the emperor on the 19th of the month, by hoisting the national flag over the vessel, dressing the ship, and firing the imperial salute. The United States assented to the display of the national standard and the dressing of the ship, but found it impracticable to agree to the firing of the salute, in view of the fact that, as the Lena was not in commission, but was lying in a friendly port completely disarmed and in the custody of the United States till the end of the war, her character as a warship, including the function of saluting and the right to receive salutes, was in abeyance."

CATTLE DISEASE NOW REPORTED UNDER CONTROL

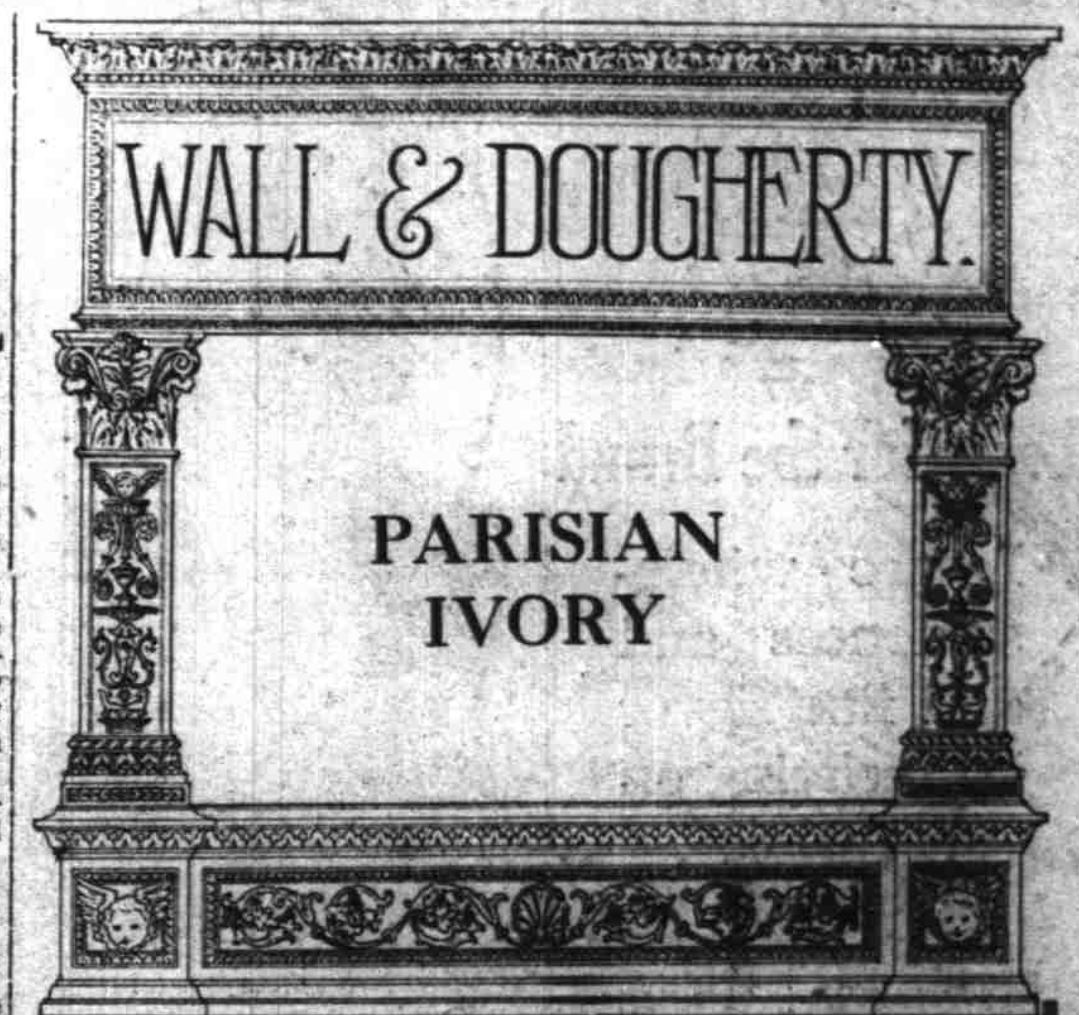

(Associated Press by Fed. Wireless.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 8.—The bureau of animal industry announces that it is believed the cattle infection which has extended to 10 states is now under control.

Active and most energetic measures were taken upon the first appearance of the foot-and-mouth disease to quarantine the infected cattle wherever found, and to prohibit the shipment of diseased cattle or any that had been exposed to infection.

These quarantines will be maintained until all danger of a further spread of the disease has passed.

The funeral services of Representative H. M. Kaniho, who died at his home on Bishop lane Saturday afternoon as the result of an aneurysm, were held yesterday afternoon from Silva's undertaking establishment, internment being in the Punahoa cemetery.
Mr. Kaniho, who was 50 years old at the time of his death, was born in Kohala, Hawaii, and was a prominent worker in the local Mormon church.

He achieved a reputation as a politician, first as a member of the Home Rule party, and later as a Democrat.
He was elected to the house of representatives from the fifth district in 1912 on the Democratic ticket, and served in the 1913 term. Mr. Kaniho ran for representative in the last election, but was defeated. He is survived by a widow.
